

2020/21

CNLM Virtual Colloquium Series

Center for the Neurobiology of Learning & Memory

Julian F. Thayer, Ph.D.
Psychological Science
UC Irvine
Why Should Cognitive Neuroscientists Care About the Vagus Nerve?: A Neurovisceral Integration Perspective

Tuesday, Sept. 29, 2020 • 11 a.m.

Judith F. Kroll, Ph.D.
Language Science
UC Irvine
The consequences of bilingualism for the mind and the brain

Tuesday, Oct. 6, 2020 • 11 a.m.

Kate M. Wassum, Ph.D.
Department of Psychology
Brain Research Institute
UCLA
Amygdala-cortical circuitry in reward learning and pursuit

Tuesday, Oct. 27, 2020 - 11 a.m.

Charan Ranganath, Ph.D.
Psychology
UC Davis
Memory at the scale of episodes: How the neocortex and hippocampus support memory for complex events

Tuesday, Dec. 8, 2020 - 11 a.m.

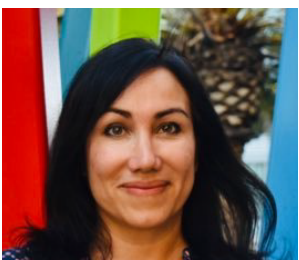

Staci D. Bilbo, Ph.D.
Psychology and Neuroscience
Duke University

Tuesday, Jan. 12, 2021 - 11 a.m.

Beth Stevens, Ph.D.
Boston Children's Hospital, F.M.
Kirby Neurobiology Center
Harvard University

Tuesday, Feb. 9, 2021 - 11 a.m.

Alicia Izquierdo, Ph.D.
Behavioral Neuroscience Area
Department of Psychology
UCLA

Tuesday, March 9, 2021 - 11 a.m.

Corey Harwell, Ph.D.
Department of Neurobiology
Harvard Medical School

Tuesday, April 27, 2021 - 11 a.m.

Kimberlei A. Richardson, Ph.D.
Department of Pharmacology
Howard University College of Medicine
Influence of Neuropeptide Regulation on Food Choice: Obstacles, Opportunities and the Orexin System

Tuesday, May 11, 2021 - 11 a.m.

RSVP Today:

cnlm.uci.edu/colloquium-series/